

Limited Purpose FSA

The Limited Purpose Health Flexible Spending Account (LPF) allows employees the additional benefit of qualifying to participate in a tax advantaged Flexible Spending Account while also being able to fund their individual Health Savings Account (HSA). 2020 maximum contribution limit is $2,750.

When an employer introduces a high deductible Health Plan (HDHP) with a Health Savings Account (HSA), they are providing their employees a vehicle to accumulate funds on a tax favored basis, in an individual Health Savings Account, these savings can then be used to pay for qualifying medical expenses. Funds deposited in an HSA are not subject to the use-or-lose rule which could cause forfeitures at the end of a plan year.

The one restriction on making tax advantaged contributions to an HSA is that the employee cannot have any other “first dollar” medical coverage available (other than coverage for vision and dental expenses), because such coverage could be used to cover the minimum out-of-pocket deductible expenses stipulated by the IRS (see chart below). Funds in a general purpose FSA are counted as “first dollar” coverage and therefore, an employee who is enrolled (or whose spouse is enrolled) in a general purpose FSA would be precluded from making contributions to their HSA during the period they have active coverage in a general purpose FSA. This is where the LPF comes into play.

The LPF is designed to be compatible with the employee’s Health Saving’s Account. Because the LPF limits reimbursements to vision and dental expenses, employees can maximize the benefits in their HSA by allowing funds to accumulate towards deductible expenses, while using separate pre-tax dollars in their LPF to pay for their out-of-pocket vision and dental expenses.

HSA Limits

HSA holders can choose to save up to the IRS limits (see below). HSA holders 55 and older get to save an extra $1,000. All of these contributions are 100% tax deductible from gross income.

Minimum annual deductibles are $1,400 for self-only coverage or $2,800 for family coverage. Annual out-of-pocket expenses (deductibles, copayments, and other amounts, but not premiums) cannot exceed $6,900 for self-only coverage and $13,800 for family coverage.

Limit	2020
Maximum Out-of-Pocket	$6,900 single/$13,800 family
Minimum Deductible	$1,400 single/$2,800 family
Maximum Contribution	$3,550 single/$7,100 family
Maximum catch-up contribution for individuals age 55 or older	$1,000
